✓ Be flexible.

Despite the economic downturn, patients continue to demand new products and services. And, so it follows that the more you offer, the more patients you will attract. You can also bundle existing services for a single fee. You may even market this approach as a "buy three, get one free" package for budget-conscious prospects. Take a close look at the demography you are trying to reach and set your prices for affordability. Do what you can to further accommodate varying budgets in your market by offering patient-financing options that allow payment over time.

✓ Be open to new opportunities.

You may be tempted to do the opposite in difficult economic times, but you might actually consider expanding your business. This may be a good time to evaluate the acquisition of an existing medical practice that's unable or unwilling to withstand an economic downturn or may be considering retirement. Make sure you perform due diligence on the business—and always review profit-and-loss statements with your accountant before making any decisions.

✓ Are you aware of the substantial opportunities gained by acquiring equipment and technology this year?

If you are planning an office expansion, check with your tax advisor concerning the new 2009 Section 179 Tax Deduction allotments. This tax law will allow you to lower your taxable income, boost the productivity of your practice, and offer new and improved treatments. The Economic Stimulus Act of 2009 is now in effect, and is worth looking into. IRS Section 179 encourages small-business owners, sole proprietorships, partnerships, and corporations (including LLCs) to invest in equipment by allowing them to deduct the asset's value in the first year. The 2009 limit is $250,000. Invest in your practice and capitalize on this tax benefit.

Consult your tax advisor for specific details. Your Sales Consultant can schedule a no-cost, no-obligation visit to explore equipment opportunities based on your specialty. In addition, Henry Schein offers leasing and financing for your large-equipment purchases through Henry Schein Financial Services. For details, call 1-631-843-5554.

Each month we circulate practical and useful tips to provide cost-saving practice solutions as well as environmental tips that help the physician survive the current economy. Log onto www.henryschein.com/medicalnews to sign up for this helpful newsletter.

6 Spotlight on: ANESTHESIA AND MONITORING

Statistics show that anesthesia today is safer and more effective than ever before. Due to advancements in monitoring technology and anesthetic drugs, extensive specialty education and training, and high professional standards.

In 1993, a pre-anesthesia checkout recommendation was developed and widely accepted to be an important component of safe anesthesia practice. The updated Pre-Anesthesia Checkout Design Guideline can be viewed by logging on to <http://www.asahq.org/clinical/fda.htm>

8 Spotlight on: LIPOSUCTION

Liposuction is the third most frequently performed cosmetic surgical procedure. Source: ASPS

While the economy has slowed down the demand for this procedure, it is still the most frequently requested procedure for ethnic patients, enjoying a 13% increase in 2008. Source: ASPS

Phantom These aspirators are the only suction devices that allow for the attachment of up to 4 collection canister systems at one time. This feature virtually eliminates the need to make time-consuming canister changes during the procedure.

All Phantom aspirators have been awarded the UL, c-UL and CE marks of design and manufacturing quality excellence.

Spotlight on: POST PROCEDURE SKIN CARE

Alginates have been used in various forms for fifty years, and yet they remain a poorly understood and probably underused dressing. 4 major studies show major benefits of this compound due to its properties' moist microenvironment that promotes healing and the formation of granulation tissue.

Topical retinoids have been shown to improve the texture and fine lines of photodamaged skin.

Spotlight on: NON-INVASIVE PROCEDURES

Aesthetic patients are becoming more focused on the texture and pigimentary issues of their skin.

Source: Sharon McQuillan, MD Trends in Aesthetic Medicine September 2008

Researchers predict more than 55 million cosmetic surgery procedures will be performed in 2015, 12 percent will be surgical, and 88 percent will be non-surgical. Source: Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery June 2008

16 Spotlight on: ELECTROSURGERY

Electrosurgery is commonly used for cosmetic procedures such as breast augmentation and body contouring as well as reimbursable procedures such as removal of tumors and skin lesions and breast reconstruction. It is often preferred by surgeons over laser surgery and cryosurgery for several procedures.

Bovie AARON MEDICAL

913-2993

Aaron 2250 by Bovie® offers the most consistent energy delivery in the industry (5000 x per second), ideal for the most demanding procedures like tummy tucks and breast augmentation/reduction. This product is ideal for cosmetic and reconstructive procedures due to its ability to have both monopolar and bipolar accessories plugged in at the same time.

357-9906

For a cost-effective alternative or a practice that is performing mostly breast or facial procedures, consider the Aaron 1250.
