Henry Schein is a business that serves society through our relationships with customers, suppliers, investors and our own Team Schein Members. But in truth, the real work of making society better is done by the good people we celebrate in these pages — the selfless volunteers who give their time and talent to enrich the lives of those who have too little. We celebrate the dentist who does mission work in developing nations, the physician who provides free examinations for those without access to primary care, and the veterinarian who saves animals’ lives in the wake of a disaster. It is our honor to support these heroes and to share their stories with you in our 2014 Corporate Social Responsibility Review.

At Henry Schein, we gauge our social responsibility performance in four key areas: Access to Health Care, Team Schein Engagement, Environmental Sustainability, and Accountability. This year, we have chosen to review our performance through the lens of the individual stories of some of our recipients and partners. Through this “look inside,” we hope to share a sense of the passion, caring, and spirit of partnership that animates all of our efforts. It is our work with hundreds of exceptional partners around the world that allows us to enhance access to health care for those in need and to make a positive difference in the world.

Over the course of more than eight decades, our Company’s culture of caring and an enduring commitment to our values has allowed us to create long-term economic value while making the world a better place. This is our “higher ambition.” We firmly believe that our deep commitment to ethical standards and business practices, coupled with our dedication to the notion that we can “do well by doing good,” drives our long-term success.

But we can’t do good on our own. It takes teams of people, working in partnership, to change society for the better. We support these volunteer teams with contributions of products, services and other resources so they can focus on providing care to the underserved around the world. To the extent that Henry Schein is recognized publicly for this work, we share that recognition with the partners and volunteers whose stories you are about to read.

We remain dedicated to the work of using our resources, in partnership with our entire network of customers, suppliers, investors and Team Schein Members, to advance the cause of building better societies. We look forward to continuing on this journey, and we believe that our best years are yet to come.

Stanley M. Bergman
Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Henry Schein, Inc.

“...our dedication to the notion that we can ‘do well by doing good,’ drives our long-term success.”
Leveraging Our Collective Strength to “Help Health Happen”

Henry Schein Cares, our global corporate social responsibility program, was established on the philosophy of enlightened self-interest — a belief that we can “do well by doing good” — which Benjamin Franklin espoused centuries ago. Enlightened self-interest is an opportunity to create shared value for society and business. We firmly believe that true corporate success is intimately tied to making the world a better place. Because no single corporation can solve all of society’s problems, a company must select issues that intersect with its particular business.

Consider some of the many global health care challenges facing us today. How can we increase access to health care services in developing nations? How can we bridge the gap between those with ready access to health care practitioners and the underserved? How can we provide vital health care products and services to areas of the world devastated by natural disaster or political unrest?

Because the complexity of these and other health care issues are daunting, they can only be addressed through public-private partnerships, the foundation of our corporate social responsibility model. These partnerships include our suppliers, NGOs, governmental agencies, professional associations, and Team Schein. We contribute to these innovative partnerships our extensive health product offerings, our relationship with suppliers and customers, and our logistical and communications capabilities, leveraging our collective strength to “help health happen.” Each sector is an integral and interdependent spoke supporting a wheel to address today’s global health care challenges. Only by working together and contributing those resources and expertise for which we individually are best suited can we get traction toward resolving important health care issues. At Henry Schein, our role is to work with each spoke of the wheel, in collaboration with local communities, to mobilize support for health care issues of common concern. We do this through Henry Schein Cares.
History of Giving

In 1932, Henry and Esther Schein opened a small pharmacy in Queens, New York, in the depths of the Great Depression. Despite the challenges they faced, the Schein family found ways to give back to their neighbors in need and instilled a culture of caring in the Company that has grown stronger over the course of more than eight decades. Today, Henry Schein is the world’s largest provider of health care products and services to office-based dental, animal health, and medical practitioners. More than 18,000 Team Schein Members in 29 countries serve customers around the world. And, as the size of our business has grown, so has our ability to “help health happen” through Henry Schein Cares.

Environmental Sustainability

Henry Schein embraces the principles of environmental stewardship by minimizing its consumption of resources and reducing negative environmental impacts. We also promote environmental sustainability among our customers by encouraging the “greening” of health professionals’ offices.

Accountability

For 83 years, Henry Schein has built an environment of ethics and compliance that is based on our Team Schein Values and commitment to our five key constituencies – our Team Schein Members, customers, supplier partners, investors and society. We ensure accountability by upholding ethical standards in all areas of our business.

Henry Schein Has a Higher Ambition

Henry Schein believes that it can best realize its potential by creating long-term economic value, generating wider benefits for society, and building social capital within its organization all at once. Henry Schein is a Founding Member of the Center for Higher Ambition Leadership, a non-profit 501(c)3 with the mission of “Leaders helping leaders to realize their higher ambitions.” The Center for Higher Ambition Leadership is dedicated to developing and supporting a growing global community of leaders who have higher ambitions for themselves and their institutions.

Together with other like-minded companies, Henry Schein is working with the Center to bring together leaders from higher ambition institutions to learn from each other; develop actionable insights on the critical challenges and best practices for leading and developing higher ambition institutions; and support the development of the next generation of highly capable leaders who will carry on the work of building higher-ambition institutions.
ACCESS TO HEALTH CARE: WELLNESS, PREVENTION, TREATMENT AND EDUCATION

More than half of all lives lost throughout the world are attributed to chronic disease — also known as non-communicable diseases — including cancer, diabetes, chronic lung diseases and cardiovascular illness. As unhealthy lifestyles have “gone global,” so has the geography of chronic disease: nearly 75% of deaths from chronic diseases are in the developing world. And although oral disease may not be top-of-mind when one thinks of the global chronic diseases that deserve critical attention, approximately half of Americans have periodontal disease, and the global incidence is likely higher than that. Oral disease in adults is associated with chronic diseases such as diabetes, heart disease, colorectal cancer, Alzheimer’s disease, osteoporosis, brain aneurysms, pancreatic cancer, and increased risk of premature birth and low birth weight for expectant mothers.

In the fight against chronic disease, wellness, prevention, treatment and education are critical. And yet many underserved and at-risk populations lack basic access to health care, and many health care providers around the world lack the critical supplies they need to provide preventive care. By donating health care supplies to non-profit community health clinics, developing innovative public-private partnership programs to provide care for those in need, and supporting global health care missions, we leverage our expertise and the global scope of our operations to help bring much needed health care to vulnerable populations.

Helping More Than 750 Children “Brush to Crush Cavities” in Cayuga County

Just a few years ago, the need for oral and dental care for children was great in Cayuga County, in rural New York State. The children had a history of oral health problems, with an abnormally high rate of dental cavities. More than 70% of third graders showed signs of untreated cavities and tooth decay, according to the New York State Department of Health — Oral Health Indicators Report (2008).

“The statistics spoke for themselves — the children of the county were suffering through serious oral health problems,” said Deanna Hoey, Public Health Educator at Cayuga County Health and Human Services. Ms. Hoey, together with a group of caring health professionals, quickly went to work, forming a planning committee in the summer of 2010 to develop a comprehensive community-based intervention model. The committee agreed to the creation of a pilot program, “Brush to Crush Cavities,” at Genesee Elementary, a Cayuga County primary school. “Brush to Crush Cavities” incorporated daily brushing into school activities, coordinated dental health screenings, and facilitated referrals for dental treatment and follow-up care.

Through its Health Kit Outreach program, the Henry Schein Cares Foundation donated take-home oral health kits for the children as part of “Brush to Crush Cavities.” During the 2013–2014 school year, more than 750 children participated in the program, which expanded to include another county school, Casey Park Elementary. “Just by demonstrating simple proper tooth brushing techniques, we know we are significantly affecting children’s lives,” said Ms. Hoey. “The program simply would not have been possible without Henry Schein’s support.”
Consider some of the many global health care challenges fa
headline to come????

When Jeffrey B. Dalin, a dentist in St. Louis, MO, gathered with his dental professional peers in 2002, he could not have predicted what he was getting himself into. “There were plenty of patients, many of them children, in St. Louis who had gone without care for too long,” said Dr. Dalin. “We deeply wanted to give back. I thought, why not provide full-service dentistry, including preventive and restorative treatment?”

Thus was the beginning of the ADA Foundation’s “Give Kids A Smile™” program. The program, which provides oral health care services to underserved children, humbly began in a run-down building in St. Louis. “The building obviously didn’t bode well,” said Dr. Dalin. “Nonetheless, we pulled up our sleeves, and in just two days we provided care to 325 kids.”

Because of the success of the two-day event, the “Give Kids A Smile” program was formalized and adopted by the ADA, with Henry Schein becoming the program’s official professional product sponsor. Soon the program was in full swing, growing to become the largest oral health campaign in the world — one that provides hundreds of thousands of children with free oral health screenings, education and treatment delivered by tens of thousands of oral health professionals at more than a 1,000 events each year. The ADA Foundation assumed management of the “Give Kids A Smile” program in 2015.

“It’s inexcusable to see kids suffer, for them to be in pain, to be unable to eat, or to have low self-esteem. Because of what Henry Schein, the ADA, the ADA Foundation, and the entire dental community are doing, we have the power to make these problems go away. And we do it one day, one child, one mouth, one tooth at time.”

—Dr. Jeffrey B. Dalin

Give Kids A Smile

For the 13th consecutive year, Henry Schein played a central role in expanding access to oral health care for underserved children in the United States through its support of the ADA Foundation’s “Give Kids A Smile™” program, the largest oral health charitable event in the world. Every year, dentists and dental team members around the country team up to host “Give Kids A Smile” Day events, celebrated nationally on the first Friday of each February, to provide a range of free dental services and educational programs for underserved children. As the official professional products sponsor since the program’s inception, Henry Schein, together with its valued supplier partners, has donated more than $13 million in oral health care products used to provide free oral health services for nearly five million children. In 2015, “Give Kids A Smile” brought together approximately 35,000 dental team volunteers, including 8,000 dentists, for more than 350,000 underserved children at nearly 1,500 events across the country for free oral health screenings, education, and treatment.
Supporting Dr. Bergermann’s Work With Interplast e.V. in Myanmar

Facial and hand deformities, cleft lips and palates, and scars from burns that lead to limb dysfunction — while these undoubtedly affect the physical and psychological health of sufferers, severe social harm is also wrought by these diseases and disfigurements on those afflicted in developing and emerging countries.

For years, Henry Schein has supported the courageous, selfless work of Dr. Michael Bergermann, a maxillofacial surgeon from Hamm, Germany, who has participated in 22 medical missions to provide free plastic reconstructive surgery. Working through the Munich section of Interplast-Germany e.V., an organization of health care professionals that works with in-country hospitals to provide surgery to people with deformities, Dr. Bergermann most recently joined a two-week medical mission in the port city of Sittwe in Myanmar. The Interplast team, Dr. Bergermann, anesthesiologists, plastic surgeons, nurses and a medical student, treated nearly 100 patients, most of whom were children with facial deformities, clubfeet, and full-body scars from burns.

“All over the world, every day, there are people, including children, who live in the shadows, who are rejected because of something they’ve had since birth — or from debilitating wounds caused by wars or accidents,” said Dr. Bergermann. “Through our work, and Henry Schein’s support, we help bring patients back from the outskirts and restore not only their health, but their humanity, too. When you see a child capable of smiling for the first time in years, the joy is unmistakable, infectious, and instant. When you see a mother who before couldn’t extend her arm to hold that child, it’s overwhelming.”
ACCESS TO HEALTH CARE: WELLNESS, PREVENTION, TREATMENT AND EDUCATION

Approximately 30 low-cost-housing urban communities, 20 informal urban settlements and 20 rural settlements.

In 2014, Dr. Roos was named the recipient of the second annual Henry Schein Cares International Veterinary Community Service Award for her efforts in developing sustainable animal health care programs for indigenous, indigent communities with underserved pets. Dr. Roos’ recognition came with a $5,000 monetary donation presented by Henry Schein Animal Health, a percentage of which has been donated to the central office of SAVA-CVC. The largest portion of the funds has been donated to support a comprehensive Pet Population Management Programme taking place in Wupperthal, a remote wilderness village in South Africa.

“Only 8% of pets in South Africa have access to the best veterinary health care,” said Dr. Annelize Roos, a South African veterinarian. “Less than 30% of the remainder of pets in the country have a degree of access to even basic primary health care.” Dr. Roos is Director of the South African Veterinary Association Community Veterinary Clinics (SAVA-CVC) and Principal of EnviroVet CVC, a satellite community veterinary clinic of the SAVA-CVC.

Since inception in 2009, EnviroVet CVC has performed all elements of primary health care on more than 25,000 dogs and cats that belong to indigent owners in South Africa, providing services including sterilization, vaccination, internal and external parasite control, as well as owner education. Helping Kids Smile

This year, Henry Schein U.K., in partnership with Colgate U.K., joined the children of West Minster Primary School in Sheerness, U.K., to celebrate the ongoing progress of an innovative oral health program called Helping Kids Smile. Launched as part of Henry Schein Cares in October 2013, Helping Kids Smile teaches students of West Minster Primary School the importance of proper oral hygiene practices and provides the children with free oral health assessments.

During oral health education sessions, children, with the aid of a lead classroom teacher, learn proper oral health practices, such as maintaining a consistent brushing schedule, using proper brushing techniques, and eating a well-balanced, nutritious diet. Clinical dental assessments are provided to children by local dental practitioners every six months over two years to determine immediate treatment needs and to track the progress of the program as an early intervention model for promoting oral health.

Zahnmobil

Providing oral health care to disadvantaged communities in Hannover, Germany

In September 2014, the Zahnmobil, a mobile dental unit operating in Hannover, Germany, treated its 1,000th patient. For nearly two years, the Zahnmobil has provided access to dental care for people in need. The mobile dental unit, supported by Henry Schein Germany since it began its tours, treats the homeless, adults, as well as children and young people from disadvantaged communities. In 2014, Henry Schein supported the Zahnmobil with a donation of 10,000 euros in health care products. The Zahnmobil was initiated by Dr. Ingeburg Mannherz, a retired dentist, and her husband, Werner Mannherz, an engineer and ergonomist.

“A lack of dental care has far-reaching consequences on the overall health of those who lack access and generates high social costs for society,” said Dr. Mannherz. “Henry Schein’s support has helped Zahnmobil reach people who are so often sidelined by the health system and left without critical oral care in already precarious life situations. With each year, we touch the lives of more and more of those people through Zahnmobil.”
Henry Schein Supports Cancer Patients’ Journey Through Treatment

Experiencing a diagnosis of cancer is frightening, and accepting the potential outcome can be difficult for patients. However, prevention and early detection are critical to ensuring the best possible prognosis and treatment. Henry Schein supports early detection of cancer, including breast, oral and other cancers, through its “Think Pink, Practice Pink” program. “Think Pink, Practice Pink” is offered as a special catalog to customers, as part of our signature cause-marketing platform, the Henry Schein Cares Calendar of Caring. The catalog features a wide selection of “pink products.”

A portion of funds raised through “Think Pink, Practice Pink” go directly to the Henry Schein Cares Foundation to support cancer-related causes. Every year, a percentage of those funds is donated to the American Cancer Society Hope Lodge® (Hope Lodge), a network of free temporary housing services offered throughout the country for cancer patients and their loved ones. In addition, each year 1,500 Henry Schein Cares Welcome Kits are donated to Hope Lodge. The kits contain personal hygiene and related items to help make each guest’s stay more comfortable.

Donating Health Care Supplies to Help Provide More Than $800,000 in Care to More Than 1,000 Patients in Troy, NY

Care was deeply needed in Troy, NY: “The patients we saw were very much the working poor, people from undereducated households and backgrounds who hadn’t been to the dentist in years, who had been living with pain related to a lack of oral care,” said Laura Leon, Executive Director, New York State Dental Foundation, and President, Dental Philanthropy Network. “Three quarters had multiple needs and maybe 20% needed extensive work.”

Ms. Leon was describing patients who had received oral health care services at the inaugural New York State Mission of Mercy Free Dental Clinic, held in June 2014 in Troy. Together with the New York State Dental Foundation, the New York State Dental Association, and the national Mission of Mercy, Henry Schein donated health care supplies that helped provide more than $800,000 in care at the dental clinic through more than 7,000 procedures and treatments, which were delivered by nearly 600 dental and medical health professionals and community volunteers. More than 1,000 community members received care, which included cleanings, fillings, extractions, X-rays, oral surgery, root canal treatments, partial prostheses, and general health screenings.

For one patient in particular, the care provided had a dramatic impact. The patient had 16 teeth removed and received restorative work and interim partial dentures. “She looked absolutely radiant; she looked 25 years younger.” —Laura Leon
“When Vice President Biden announced the White House’s initiative to focus attention and support on the needs of Holocaust survivors...a key goal was to attract public-private partnerships and [this] kind of innovative thinking and quick action...The work of Alpha Omega and Henry Schein Cares will serve as a model for how our nation can help survivors age with dignity and support.”

— Aviva Sufian, Special Envoy for U.S. Holocaust Survivor Services

In November 2014, Henry Schein Cares and Alpha Omega International Dental Fraternity announced the launch of the Alpha Omega-Henry Schein Cares Holocaust Survivors Oral Health program. This innovative public-private partnership was created in response to the White House’s call to action to help Holocaust survivors in the United States age with dignity and support. The program is a pilot three-year initiative, starting in 2015, that will provide pro-bono dental care — estimated to be valued at approximately $1 million — to a total of 250–300 Holocaust survivors across nine North American metropolitan areas in the program’s first year.

Participating patients are the most economically vulnerable victims of Nazi persecution who lack dental coverage and are referred by the local Jewish Family and Children’s Service agencies based on the program’s criteria. Pro-bono dental care for survivors is provided by Alpha Omega’s dentist members, and Henry Schein Cares is providing supplies to participating dentists. A special meeting was held at the White House in December 2014 to discuss the program.

Vice President Joseph Biden publicly applauded this effort at the General Assembly of Jewish Federation of North America in November 2014, saying, “…At least 25% of Holocaust survivors…in the United States…are living in poverty. With your encouragement, and the President’s authority, I announced the appointment of a Special Envoy for U.S. Holocaust survivors to...[rally] volunteer organizations throughout the country, from AmeriCorps...to the Association of Jewish Families and Children’s Agencies, to Alpha Omega Dental Fraternity and Henry Schein, giving free dental care to [250–300] survivors.”

Generous financial support for the coordination of the program has been provided by The Claire Friedlander Family Foundation, the program’s Guardian supporter; and Curt C. & Else Silberman Foundation, the program’s sustainer supporter. Additional generous financial support has been provided by the Henry Schein Cares Foundation, Bedford Health Care Solutions, The Dr. Edward B. Shils Entrepreneurial Fund, Inc., the Wagner Family Foundation, InnoDDS Dental Laboratory, and numerous individual donors. Town and Country Dental Studios is the program’s Laboratory Partner.
Helping Establish a Dental Office for the Homeless of Vienna

Many of the homeless are repeatedly sick, often having painful teeth that affect their oral and psychological health, social inclusion, employability, and overall health and well-being. In response to neglect of the homeless in the city of Vienna, Austria, neunerHAUS, a social-services institution formed in 1999, has been offering medical and oral health care services to the homeless, as well as veterinary care to their pets.

Henry Schein Dental Austria helped establish neunerHAUS’ dental office, designing its layout and workflow and installing high-tech digital X-ray equipment, including a digital panoramic X-ray unit and an intra-oral scanner. The dental office provides homeless patients with everything from conventional dental surgeries to specialty operations, including tooth extractions and root canal treatments.

Henry Schein continues to support the day-to-day operations of the dental office by providing equipment engineering services.

“People from all walks of life end up homeless in all sorts of situations for all kinds of reasons — it’s not our place to judge,” said Peter Przybylski, a Henry Schein Architect and Practice Planner who worked on the dental office. “But our responsibility doesn’t end there. We also have to recognize homelessness as a social, medical, and dental health problem. Many people have oral pain that nobody should have to endure.”

In addition, since 2010, Henry Schein has also supported with cash and product donations Caritas Staßenambulanz, a street ambulance service that provides health care to the homeless in Frankfurt, Germany.

“‘We also have to recognize homelessness as a social, medical, and dental health problem. Many people have oral pain that nobody should have to endure.’
— Peter Przybylski

Oral Health Fund

In 2014, Henry Schein began a partnership with the Royal Dutch Dental Association (KNMT), the largest professional association for dentists and dental specialists in the Netherlands, to promote the importance of oral health and enhance access to oral care throughout the Netherlands. On behalf of Henry Schein, Henry Schein Cares and the Company’s dental industry partners, Stanley Bergman presented Dr. Rob Barnasconi, President of the KNMT, with a check for 150,000 euros at the KNMT’s anniversary celebration. The donation was in support of KNMT’s efforts to advance oral health in the Netherlands through the KNMT Oral Health Fund.

“‘Henry Schein and the KNMT both have a strong commitment to promoting oral health,” said Dr. Barnasconi. “A healthy mouth is more important than most people think. With the support of our partners at Henry Schein, we can ensure this topic gets broader attention through increased awareness. This is in the interest of the patient, of health care, and of society. We look forward to strengthening our partnership and deepening our relationship with Henry Schein.”
Outward Bound Trust

Henry Schein U.K. launched a partnership in 2014 with The Outward Bound Trust, an international educational charity that uses outdoor learning experiences to nurture and develop young people who face the challenges of living in disadvantaged communities. As part of a U.K. initiative of Henry Schein Cares, Henry Schein sponsored 24 young people, aged 13 to 15, selected from Brompton Academy, an independent state school in Gillingham, to take part in an Outward Bound course. The Outward Bound course was intended to instill a sense of purpose, self-responsibility, adaptability, mastery, and personal competence in the young adults.

“The Outward Bound experience will undoubtedly enrich the lives of our young people and help prepare them for their future goals in life,” said Judy Rider, Principal of Brompton Academy. “We are excited by our new partnership with Henry Schein and look forward to continuing to work together.”

Helping Restore Beautiful Smiles to Children

According to the Journal of Craniofacial Surgery, an estimated 30,000 children in China are born annually with cleft lip and palate (CLP), a congenital deformity presenting a multitude of problems. For sufferers of CLP, speech production is affected, feeding is more difficult, and maxillofacial growth and dentition are impacted. In addition, there is a widely acknowledged ethnic variation in the CLP rate — children born of Asian ancestry are most commonly affected. The most vulnerable children in China are those born to low-income families, who are unable to afford the costly restorative surgery needed to reverse the defect at the time when the surgery is most helpful, which is between three and six months.

Henry Schein Cares in China has been helping to provide needed funds to families seeking to restore their children’s beautiful smiles. During the 16th Chinese Stomatological Association’s annual event and dental show in September 2014, many people stopped by the Henry Schein Cares booth and left colorful handprints on the Wall of Love. Each hand print signified a one renminbi donation from Henry Schein China, providing financial support for restorative surgery for children with CLP. As a follow-up to this event, four Team Schein Members from Henry Schein China participated in China Operation Smile activities in China’s Guangxi province.
Supporting a Community Health Fair in Gadsden, AL, America’s Fourth Poorest City

“We had a lady come in with a detached retina,” said Amelia Wofford, Planning and Development Officer at Quality of Life Services, Inc. Luckily, an optometrist was on site at the community health fair held in October 2014 by Quality of Life Services in Gadsden, AL, America’s fourth poorest city. The patient was routed into care the very next week. Quality of Life Services was one of 14 community health centers across the United States selected to receive support in 2014 from Henry Schein’s Healthy Lifestyles, Healthy Communities® program, held in partnership with The National Association of Community Health Centers (NACHC). For the Gadsden event, Quality of Life Services received a $5,000 cash grant, as well as in-kind support and medical and dental supplies donated by Henry Schein Cares valued at $5,000.

With the help of the NACHC and Henry Schein, 279 patients were seen by 68 volunteer dentists, doctors, nurse practitioners, and an optometrist. “When you have everyone buying in, and everyone committed, there is so much more you can do,” said Ms. Wofford. “Having Henry Schein on our side was a huge help. They created our banners, marketing materials and brochures, and really contributed their planning expertise.”

Healthy Lifestyles, Healthy Communities®

Founded in 2006, Henry Schein’s Healthy Lifestyles, Healthy Communities (HLHC) program promotes access to care, wellness and prevention for underserved communities by providing free medical and dental screenings for children and their caregivers in cities across the United States. Supported by Henry Schein Cares, HLHC local events are co-sponsored by state and local health organizations. In each city, physicians, nurses, dentists, and community volunteers screen for risk factors associated with the chronic diseases most common among children and adults, including hypertension, asthma, diabetes, obesity, and oral disease. The program seeks to create a “Health Home®” for participating children and their caregivers so that they have a place to receive ongoing care throughout the year. In 2014, Henry Schein continued its partnership with the National Association of Community Health Centers (NACHC) and held 14 HLHC events, reaching more than 8,500 children and adult caregivers. Henry Schein Cares donated a total of $140,000 in grants and in-kind support to the 2014 program recipients.
When disaster strikes, communities can be consumed by the crisis of the moment and struggle to save lives and mitigate damage. Oftentimes, local governments may not have the resources readily available to treat those affected by the disaster, whether it is a dangerous and sudden meteorological event or an epidemiological disaster with international implications, such as the 2014 Ebola outbreak in West Africa.

Through Henry Schein Cares, our Company has been committed to disaster relief efforts for nearly two decades. One key to our effective engagement in this area has been our ability to use our global supply chain to swiftly send life-saving supplies to those in need through public-private partnerships and coordination. Henry Schein works closely with our supplier partners, non-governmental organization (NGO) partners, UN agencies, government entities, and others to coordinate and donate needed medical and dental supplies. We pre-position pallets of supplies in the warehouses of our NGO partners ensuring that they are prepared with our products to respond immediately when disaster strikes. We have a 24-hour disaster-relief hotline for our customers who are affected, and establish relief funds to provide a pathway for our team members and others to donate funds to assist those affected.

ACCESS TO HEALTH CARE: EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS AND DISASTER RELIEF

The Lessons of Ebola

In what can be characterized as an epidemiological worst case scenario, the 2014 Ebola outbreak in West Africa struck at the crossroads of three countries where extreme poverty, lack of international investment in public health infrastructure, and a critical dearth of health care professionals left the health care system in total shambles.

In our increasingly interconnected world, the Ebola outbreak made clear that disease cannot be controlled by passports. A global health crisis anywhere in the world can pose a humanitarian, economic, and security threat everywhere in the world.

Henry Schein worked closely with its valued supplier partners to help ensure that health care workers on the ground in Ebola-affected regions received the protective equipment and other essential supplies needed to safely continue their heroic work of saving lives. The CDC Foundation and Henry Schein’s partner relief organizations, including AmeriCares, Direct Relief, International Medical Corps, MedShare and Mercy Ships, worked to continually monitor the need for medical supplies and coordinate donations. Together with Henry Schein’s supplier partners, including Crosstex International, Inc., KaVo Kerr Group, Medicom LLC and PDI Healthcare, the Company committed more than $1 million in personal protective equipment, including masks, gloves and gowns, along with hand sanitizers and coveralls, to help prevent the spread of Ebola in West Africa.

“Henry Schein product donations are helping to protect health workers and promote infection prevention and control in West Africa, which is critical to stopping Ebola,” said Garrett Ingoglia, AmeriCares Vice President of Emergency Response.
Providing Emergency Relief Supplies to Care for a Child Survivor of Ebola

In 2014, Henry Schein collaborated with Direct Relief, donating medicine and personal protective equipment to combat Ebola. One of the recipients of these donations was Medical Research Centre (MRC), based in Sierra Leone. Direct Relief worked closely with MRC to send needed supplies to the Hastings Ebola Treatment Centre, located near Freetown. One of the patients treated at the Centre was a child who may have been Ebola’s youngest survivor: a two-week-old baby girl, who did not yet have a name.

Born to a woman who tested positive for Ebola while pregnant, the baby girl was diagnosed with Ebola after her mother began breast feeding her. The Hastings Ebola Treatment Centre nursed the baby back to health, returning her to her mother. Both were declared Ebola survivors, along with many other people released from the Centre.

“One of the primary failings of the initial response to Ebola was the lack of supplies used in preventing transmission. Thanks to donor partners like Henry Schein, our organization was better able to materially aid the Treatment Centre in its efforts to employ effective infection safeguards and containment procedures.”

—Andrew MacCalla, Director of International Programs and Emergency Response at Direct Relief
A History of Commitment to Global Disaster Relief

For nearly two decades, Henry Schein has been committed to using its core business expertise to assist in disaster preparedness and response efforts around the globe. Through public-private partnerships with its NGO strategic partners, supplier partners, and organizations such as the World Economic Forum and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Foundation, Henry Schein is committed to playing an integral role in efforts to improve the world’s planning and response to disasters. Henry Schein Cares has donated life-saving health care supplies to help support relief efforts around the world, including:

- 9/11 New York to deliver emergency medical supplies to trauma hospitals and Ground Zero workers in 2001
- Asia after the 2004 Indian Ocean earthquake resulted in a tsunami that devastated coastal regions
- New Orleans and Mississippi after Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita in 2005
- Pakistan to help the 2005 earthquake victims and 2010 flood victims
- Myanmar to help the 2008 summer cyclones
- Chile’s rural communities to help earthquake victims in 2010
- Haiti in 2010 with partner NGOs to help victims of the earthquake that struck Port-au-Prince and surrounding areas
- China’s Qinghai province in 2010 to support earthquake victim relief efforts
- Australia and New Zealand, in 2011, to provide health care supplies to health professionals displaced by floods and earthquakes; and Australia, in 2013, after brushfires struck
- East Africa to offset the effects of famine and acute food shortages in 2011 after one of the region’s worst droughts in 60 years
- Israel and Lebanon to provide aid to both sides of the ongoing conflict
- Japan after the 2011 tsunami
- Missouri to help in the post-2011 tornado rebuilding efforts
- Colorado after brushfires struck in 2012
- Louisiana after Hurricane Isaac in 2012
- Hurricane Sandy in 2012
- The Philippines after Typhoon Haiyan in 2013
- West Africa to support Ebola containment and relief efforts in 2014
- Malawi in 2015 to support flood victims
- Nepal Earthquake in 2015

Where Henry Schein disaster relief donations have been distributed:

In 2014, Stanley Bergman was honored at MedShare’s fourth annual “Share the Good Gala.” Mr. Bergman was recognized for spearheading Henry Schein’s commitment to expand access to care globally for underserved communities and for the Company’s more than a decade of support of MedShare. Henry Schein donated furniture, supplies, and a forklift to help equip MedShare’s new Northeast Collection and Sort Center in Secaucus, NJ. MedShare is a nonprofit organization dedicated to improving health care and the environment through the efficient recovery and redistribution of surplus medical supplies and equipment to those most in need. Through the years, Henry Schein has donated more than $2 million in financial and in-kind donations to MedShare, which has helped facilitate the shipment of more than 1,100 forty-foot containers to support more than 3,200 medical mission teams in 96 countries.

“Our ability to supply people and communities with vital medical resources, training, and infrastructure is in large part thanks to the generous donations made by Henry Schein over the years. Our partnership is strong now and continues to strengthen with every passing year, helping us bring care to so many in need. We thank Henry Schein for all their tremendous support.”

Supporting Smile Grenada

The children of Grenada are particularly vulnerable to dental caries. In 2010, at the request of the Ministry of Health of Grenada, a national oral health survey was performed, revealing that 83% of the children of the tri-island nation suffered from untreated tooth decay.

Dr. Samira Ehteshami, a 2014 graduate of the NYU College of Dentistry, wanted to make a difference. “I enjoyed working with kids and I had an interest in research so I was eager to participate in student outreach to Grenada,” said Dr. Ehteshami. In 2012, Dr. Ehteshami, then a dental student, joined the New York University College of Dentistry (NYUCD)/Henry Schein Cares Global Student Outreach Program, which was founded in 2009. In 2010, the NYUCD/Henry Schein Cares Global Student Outreach Program enlisted local public and oral health professionals to build capacity in Grenada’s schools and public health systems. The result was the creation of Smile Grenada, a national school-based oral health program, which the Ministry of Health of Grenada is continuing to implement and oversee to this day.

The program was eye-opening for Dr. Ehteshami: “After my first day of delivering toothbrushes, applying fluoride, and giving oral hygiene instruction to several hundred school children, I felt a great sense of accomplishment.”

In addition to Grenada, students participating in the NYUCD/Henry Schein Cares Global Student Outreach Program have served those in need in the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Honduras, India, Jamaica, Mexico, Nepal, Nicaragua, and Tanzania, as well as rural locations in Alaska, Maine, and New York.

In 2014, Henry Schein Donated More Than $6 Million in Health Care Products to Nearly 150 Organizations

Through the Henry Schein Cares Global Product Donation Program (GPDP), Henry Schein annually donates large pallets of product valued at $5,000 – $25,000 each to U.S. non-profit, community-based dental and medical humanitarian organizations.

Henry Schein Cares Global Student Outreach Program

The Henry Schein Cares Global Student Outreach Program supports health care outreach performed by dental students throughout the world. Through the donation of health care products and equipment, the Henry Schein Cares Global Student Outreach Program assists participating schools in providing oral health care services and education to underserved communities. In 2014, Henry Schein contributed $100,000 in health care products to support the Henry Schein Cares Global Student Outreach Program at the New York University’s College of Dentistry, Stony Brook University School of Dental Medicine, and the University of the Pacific Arthur A. Dugoni School of Dentistry. In 2015, the Henry Schein Cares Global Student Outreach Program was expanded to include the University at Buffalo School of Dental Medicine, the Columbia University College of Dental Medicine, Nova Southeastern University College of Dental Medicine, and Temple University’s Maurice H. Kornberg School of Dentistry. Henry Schein also supports dental student outreach efforts at King’s College London Dental Institute; and New Zealand’s National School of Dentistry, at the University of Otago.
Harvard Tree of Peace

Representing the Pioneering Partnership of Medicine, Dentistry and Education

French author Everett Mamor once wrote: “We can learn a lot from trees; they are always grounded but never stop reaching heavenward.” The ambition to never stop reaching for peace, help, and hope is symbolized by the Tree of Peace, a bronze sculpture representing the pioneering partnership of medicine, dentistry, and education, as well as the enduring desire to achieve peace within the global community.

In June 2014, Harvard School of Dental Medicine (HSDM) became the fifth school to install a Tree of Peace statue, symbolizing and honoring the service and commitment to global peace through dentistry by two longtime members of the HSDM: Dr. Walter C. Guralnick, Professor Emeritus of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery; and Dr. Bruce Donoff, Dean of the Harvard School of Dental Medicine.

The Alliance for Oral Health Across Borders is an international non-governmental organization created by oral health care professionals and oral health advocates — dentists, dental educators, members of the oral health care team, business leaders, public servants, administrators, researchers, advocates, and others — representing dozens of nationalities whose mission is to use the vehicle of oral care to increase understanding and respect among people in conflict. The first four Trees of Peace have been installed at Al-Quds University School of Dentistry, A.T. Still University’s Arizona School of Dentistry & Oral Health, Hebrew University–Hadassah School of Dental Medicine, and Temple University’s Maurice H. Kornberg School of Dentistry.

The Tree of Peace statue was created by noted UNESCO Artist of Peace Hedva Ser, and the Tree of Peace program was developed by Dr. Allen Finkelstein, Chief Executive Officer of Bedford HealthCare Solutions. The program is supported by The Dr. Edward B. Shils Entrepreneurial Fund, Inc.; Henry Schein Cares; the Alpha Omega International Dental Fraternity; and the Alliance for Oral Health Across Borders, which organizes the program.

Working to Achieve a Cavity-Free World for Children

Henry Schein Cares has supported the Senior Dental Leaders Program, a collaboration between King’s College London and Harvard University, since its inception in 2007. First conceptualized by Professor Raman Bedi, D.D.S., Chairman of the Global Child Dental Fund at King’s College London, the program is designed to develop high-level leadership and management capabilities in oral health leaders from around the globe. Over the course of the annual, multi-day conference, dental policy makers, national Chief Dental Officers, representatives from non-governmental organizations, and academics work to forge an international collaborative network with the goal of advancing the mission of a cavity-free world for children.

In 2014, the program brought together many dental leaders, including six from China, Thailand, and Tanzania, whose participation was sponsored by Henry Schein. “Although much needs to be undertaken to improve oral health around the world, the first step must be to develop our senior dental leaders,” said Professor Bedi. “This program continues to grow from strength to strength, with the support of Henry Schein and others.”
Helping Address the Needs of Older Americans

“The oral health of older Americans is in a state of decay,” announced a recent Oral Health America (OHA) report titled A State Of Decay, Vol. II. The reasons are many and complicated: older adults often have limited access to dental insurance; dental services may not be affordable; and oral health education programs may not be adequate in addressing older adults’ more serious dental needs.

OHA established The Wisdom Tooth Project® to advocate for the oral health of all older Americans, and developed toothwisdom.org, a first-of-its-kind website to connect older adults to affordable dental care and resources. In 2014, the Henry Schein Cares Foundation supported the Wisdom Tooth Project with a Dental Challenge Grant. The grant enabled OHA to enhance toothwisdom.org, growing it with more than 200 pages of information-rich content. The grant also supported OHA’s efforts to develop relationships with national aging organizations to emphasize the link between overall health and oral health, and the OHA’s continuing work with legislators and organizations committed to equitable oral health policies.

“Henry Schein’s support has helped us build momentum for the Wisdom Tooth Project,” said OHA President and CEO Beth Truett. “Because of their help, we’re currently in the midst of piloting workshops that can be delivered in senior centers, churches, and synagogues and other places of congregation. These workshops demonstrate just how crucial oral care is and explain the overall health consequences of lacking oral health care.”

Dental Challenge Grants

Through the Dental Challenge Grant initiative, Henry Schein and the Henry Schein Cares Foundation support organizations that help increase access to oral health care for vulnerable adults, including individuals with disabilities, the elderly and medically at risk, as well as children in need. Each recipient of a Henry Schein Dental Challenge Grant receives a cash donation of $20,000 and a $30,000 in-kind donation of marketing support. Dental Challenge Grant recipients for 2014 included: the ADA Foundation, Children’s Dental Health Project, Dental Lifeline Network, and Oral Health America.
Expanding Oral Health Care in Cameroon with Zerca y Lejos’ Dental Clinics

According to the most recent data from a dental profession census, Cameroon, a country of more than 21 million people, has only 160 dentists, 80% of whom are located in Yaounde and Douala, the country’s two largest cities. Many rural Cameroonians have never had access to dental hygiene products, even such commonplace items as toothpaste and toothbrushes.

Zerca y Lejos, a non-governmental organization, has been combating dental disease and tooth decay in Cameroon since 2007, having brought together 67 Spanish oral health professionals to collaborate on the organization’s Oral Health Project. With the support of Henry Schein Spain and Henry Schein Cares, Zerca y Lejos has expanded its Oral Health Project in Cameroon to include 11 dental clinics. In addition, Zerca y Lejos and the University of Yaounde are working together to build a dental education program in Cameroon, with a goal of assembling high-quality local doctors, who will increase oral health awareness and care to the most isolated and remote towns in Cameroon. With Henry Schein’s support, Zerca y Lejos has trained hundreds of “health agents” who now promote health in local communities.
Henry Schein Supports Canine Companions “Puppy Raisers” and Their Veterinarians with Free Care Packages of Essential Products

Dogs aren’t just born — they are raised, and for assistance dogs, they are raised not just to be loving new members of families, but to be companion animals possessing a unique set of specialized supportive skills, attentive temperaments, and an eagerness to please and promote the well-being of people with physical disabilities.

Volunteers are tasked with raising these dogs as puppies before they can go to their permanent recipients. These volunteers are required to invest not only a great deal of time training the puppy at home and at special classes, but must also provide financially for the puppy’s food, shelter, and veterinary care. That’s why in 2015 Henry Schein Animal Health joined with Canine Companions for Independence for a multi-year partnership designed to celebrate the volunteers who raise Canine Companions’ puppies and the veterinarians who provide care. Canine Companions for Independence is the first and largest assistance dog organization in the United States helping people with physical disabilities.

Through the partnership, each Canine Companions “puppy raiser” and the veterinarian who cares for the dog will receive a Henry Schein Cares-Canine Companions Puppy Raiser Care Package stocked with the products essential for raising the puppy during the first 18 months of life. In addition, Henry Schein will launch a national fundraising campaign benefiting Canine Companions for Independence in tandem with the Company’s animal health customers. The Company will launch the program with a $50,000 commitment, plus the value of the care packages themselves.

“Our volunteers spend their own money and veterinarians provide exceptional care. We are gratified that Henry Schein recognizes the sacrifices our volunteers make on behalf of people with disabilities.”

—Paul Mundell, Chief Executive Officer of Canine Companions for Independence

The Children’s Dental Health Project — a “Voice for Children’s Oral Health”

Since 1997, the Children’s Dental Health Project (CDHP), an independent nonprofit, has worked to improve children’s lives by promoting innovative, cost-effective solutions to oral health disparities. Founded by pioneering pediatric dentist Dr. Burton Edelstein, CDHP works on behalf of 43 million U.S. children now eligible for dental benefits through Medicaid and the Children’s Health Insurance Program.

For years, Henry Schein Cares has been at the forefront of health-promoting policies for children and families. Henry Schein’s Dental Challenge Grants have supported many CDHP efforts, including “Dental is Fundamental,” a Twitter campaign launched during National Children’s Dental Health Month in February 2014. The campaign was designed to reach new audiences and featured 60 oral health messages, facts, and tips. Campaign supporters ranged from Text4Baby, Campus Safety magazine to the Nevada Parent Teacher Association. U.S. Senator Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia and Rhode Island Lieutenant Governor Elizabeth Rogers also tweeted messages with the “dental is fundamental” hashtag.

“Henry Schein’s donations have allowed us to enhance our online presence this year, doubling our Web visitors and bringing attention to our mission to lower oral health disparities in children and promote health equity in general,” said Shanté Alerté, Development Manager at Children’s Dental Health Project. “Every person we reach can help a child grow and thrive without the distraction of dental pain. Henry Schein’s support helps us expand that conversation.”
Henry Schein Helps Dentists for Africa e.V. Enhance Access to Oral Health Care in Kenyan Villages

“In a country with an enormous burden of oral disease, where the health system infrastructure is almost entirely centered in urban areas, where one third of the rural population is destitute — well, it is easy to be demoralized, to want to surrender in the face of what seems like a lost cause,” said Dr. Hans-Joachim Schinkel, First Chairman, Dentists for Africa. “But then you think: Who will take up this mantle? Who will decide that it’s their responsibility to take on this Herculean task? That’s where we come in — to do a little bit every day to create an upswell.”

Throughout rural Kenya, upwards of 45% of school-age children suffer from dental caries, according to a 2014 oral health study. In a country whose dentist to population ratio is 1 to 378,000, and in which children under 15 make up 50% of the national population, this is perhaps not surprising.

To help these children and the underserved, Dentists for Africa establishes dental practices and conducts oral health services. Through Henry Schein Cares, Henry Schein Dental Germany supports Dentists for Africa with in-kind contributions and cash donations, and regularly provides free repairs to dental equipment for charitable missions. Since Henry Schein began supporting Dentists for Africa, the Company has donated nearly 30,000 euros to the organization.

“Dentists for Africa is committed to being a proud partner of Henry Schein Cares,” said Dr. Schinkel.

Henry Schein Cares Graduate Programs Residency Clinic

In 2014, Henry Schein and the Meharry Medical College School of Dentistry announced the unveiling and dedication of the Henry Schein Cares Graduate Programs Residency Clinic. The clinic, located at the College in Nashville, TN, gives dental students an opportunity to receive hands-on training using the latest technology while providing oral health services to underserved members of the Nashville community and expanding upon the College’s broader goals as an academic health center. These goals include a commitment to diversifying the American health professions leadership; implementing effective and innovative educational and training programs; developing enlightened health policy and culturally sensitive, evidence-based health services; and using focused research to eliminate health disparities.

“Meharry’s partnership with Henry Schein and the unveiling of the Henry Schein Cares Graduate Programs Residency Clinic furthers our ability to provide our students with an invaluable, hands-on training experience using the latest technology, while at the same time, providing an opportunity for students to give back to our community,” said Dr. Cherae M. Farmer Dixon, Dean and Professor of the Meharry Medical College School of Dentistry.
Building Capacity at the Muhimbili University of Health and Allied Sciences School of Dentistry

In Tanzania, receiving care from a dentist can sometimes be as hard as finding one. There are only 450 dentists in Tanzania, despite a population of nearly 50 million, according to self-reported data from member associations of the FDI World Dental Federation.

The Muhimbili University of Health and Allied Sciences (MUHAS) School of Dentistry in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, is one of the few dental schools offering education to the country’s dental students. Working with Health Volunteers Overseas (HVO) — a non-profit organization dedicated to improving the quality and availability of health care through the education, training, and professional development of the health workforce in resource-scarce countries — and Miracle Corners of the World (MCW) — a non-profit organization dedicated to empowering youth to become positive agents of change in their communities — and other partner organizations, Henry Schein supported the school through a multi-stage, multi-year innovation initiative.

First, MUHAS’ dental clinic and dental laboratory were upgraded and refurbished. Henry Schein then helped train dental technicians. In May and June of 2014, Henry Schein helped upgrade the school’s information technology systems, including installing practice management software. Team Schein Members also provided training for using the software to oral health care professionals and support staff. In addition, Henry Schein partnered with HVO to provide training and continuing education to the dental students and faculty at MUHAS. Since 2012, 10 HVO dentists and oral and maxillofacial surgeons have visited MUHAS providing training in orthodontics, pediatric dentistry, oral and maxillofacial surgery, endodontics, and general dentistry.

MUHAS, with its new clinic and dental laboratory and highly trained technicians, now serves as a flagship graduate program for the training of dentists in East Africa. It was the partnership between Henry Schein, the Tanzanian Ministry of Health and Social Welfare, MCW, MUHAS, and other industry organizations that made enhancing the state of oral health care education in Tanzania possible.

"By upgrading the facilities at the dental clinic and laboratory and by supporting HVO’s oral health volunteers, Henry Schein is focusing on sustainable change — ensuring that oral health professionals at MUHAS will have the capacity to meet the needs of their patients and the resilience to take on future oral health care challenges, helping thousands receive care.”

• More than 27,000 children have benefitted from the Henry Schein “Back to School” program since its inception

• More than 5,000 children in 28 locations received brand-new outfits and classroom supplies in 2014

• The “Back to School” program has been held for the past 17 years
Helping Thousands of Underserved Children Head “Back to School” Each Year

For many children, going back to school after the summer can be a thrilling but challenging occasion — they face the pressure to make new friends, they reunite with peers after the summer, and they encounter a new year’s curriculum with heightened academic standards. For underserved children who have to go to school without new clothes or supplies, this transition is that much harder.

For the benefit of these children, Henry Schein has hosted for the past 17 years its annual “Back to School” program, providing school essentials ranging from new first-day school outfits to backpacks filled with classroom supplies, books and hygiene products. Since the program’s inception in 1998, more than 27,000 children have benefitted from the Henry Schein “Back to School” program. In 2014, “Back to School” helped more than 5,000 in 28 locations. Many children received first-day school outfits, which Team Schein Members personally selected and paid for, while classroom supplies were donated by Henry Schein.

“Henry Schein’s longstanding support of our organization through the ‘Back to School’ program helps promote the academic success of our families’ children,” said Linda Buczynski, FPA, Co-Coordinator, Parent Partner, Family Support Services, Pederson-Krag Center, a social services organization located near Henry Schein’s headquarters in Melville. “We are proud to be a part of ‘Back to School,’ which continues to empower and bring respect and dignity to our families and children.”

“Back to School” in Spain

In 2014, for the first time, Henry Schein’s “Back to School” Program expanded to Europe, with an event in Madrid, Spain. In collaboration with the Association for Cooperation and Social Support for School Integration (ICEAS), Henry Schein Spain helped 60 children begin the school year prepared for success with school essentials and clothing. According to Emiliano Herrero, President of ICEAS, “Collaborating with Henry Schein on the ‘Back to School’ program is a great opportunity for us to be able to help low-income families manage back-to-school expenses. We are happy to be part of this new initiative by Henry Schein Cares in Spain, which helps families get ready for this important time of year.”

TEAM SCHEIN ENGAGEMENT

Giving back to society is a core value at Henry Schein, enshrined in our philosophy of enlightened self-interest and shared by our more than 18,000 Team Schein Members around the world. Team Schein Members participate in community outreach through their active engagement in a myriad of flagship corporate volunteer and community service programs, volunteering thousands of personal hours for charity work annually. By contributing their time, energy, and skills, our team harnesses the creativity and entrepreneurial drive that animates their work in the office to make the world a better place.
Feeding the Pets of Families Facing Hard Times

For many loving pet owners, veterinary bills are a non-negotiable expense. However, for some families facing hard times, feeding one’s pet each day can seem nearly impossible. In June 2014, Henry Schein Animal Health Team Schein Members conducted a pet food supply drive and food packet assembly event for the Sedona Grace Foundation, which helps provide central Ohio families, shelters, food pantries and rescue organizations with supplies to keep pets happy and fed. Team Schein Members collected more than 700 pounds of dog and cat food, toys, treats and miscellaneous products and assembled them into more than 160 Canine Care Packages. The packages made a “significant contribution,” according to Jill Cottone, a Sedona Grace Foundation co-founder, and were a lifeline for the pets of families dealing with food scarcity.

Helping Rescued Shelter Dogs in the U.K.

The Manchester Dogs’ Home in Harpurhey, U.K., which cares for more than 7,000 dogs every year, was ravaged by a tragic, devastating fire in September 2014. More than 30 firefighters worked to bring the blaze under control, and local services and volunteers tried to save as many of the animals as possible. Although approximately 60 dogs perished in the fire, more than 150 were rescued and relocated to the Home’s sister site, Cheshire Dogs’ Home in Warrington.

David Hinton, Managing Director at Henry Schein Animal Health, was just one of the Team Schein Members watching the events unfold on the news, which broadcast images of the charred rooftops of dog kennels in the worst-affected building. He quickly responded. “We had calls and e-mails from all areas of our business with offers to help, so we needed to coordinate our response as quickly as possible,” said Mr. Hinton. “When we contacted Cheshire Dogs’ Home, it was clear that members of the public were donating pet food and bedding, but nurses and volunteers urgently needed medical supplies and prescription medicines.”

Team Schein Members set to work assembling donations of pharmaceuticals, pet food, bedding, needles and syringes, which were delivered to Cheshire Dogs’ Home and a nearby veterinary practice by Team Schein Member Steve Solonya, Health, Safety and Security Supervisor.

“The team at the Cheshire Dogs’ Home was so grateful for the items donated. It felt good to know that we had helped make a difference,” said Mr. Solonya.
Team Schein Members Raise Money for Breast Cancer Care and Cancer Research Causes

“In May 2013, I joined the marvelous Henry’s Angels and volunteered along with my daughter and my partner at the London Moonwalk event, which supports breast cancer awareness,” said Julie Kemp, a Team Schein Member in the U.K. “Little did I know that two months later I would be diagnosed with breast cancer myself. It’s been the biggest fight of my life, but one that I have just finished. I am raising money for the same charities that helped me get through the last seven months.”

In 2014, for the second year in a row, Julie, along with her Henry’s Angels peers, a volunteer group from Henry Schein U.K., supported MoonWalk® London. The MoonWalk is organized by Walk The Walk, a breast cancer grant-making charity, and supports breast cancer care and cancer research causes.

To support the fundraising event, a group of 49 Team Schein Member volunteers from Henry’s Angels and their families made their way to Clapham Common, a park in south London. Working the 6 p.m. to midnight shift, Team Schein Members acted as Directional Marshals, helping guide walkers to their designated start areas. Other Team Schein Members sold temporary tattoos and balloons with MoonWalk/Breast Cancer logos to the walkers to help raise funds for the charity. Ellie Nightingale, an Executive Assistant at the Company and Henry’s Angels co-founder, remarked, “It’s always a great experience to support MoonWalk and help raise awareness of breast cancer. I walked the midnight half marathon this time in honor of mum, who is a breast cancer survivor twice over. I am very proud of her.”

Henry’s Angels

Henry’s Angels was formed in January 2011 by Team Schein Members Ellie Nightingale, Lyn Yorke, and Lynsey van Wyk, who wanted to create a long-lasting program of volunteers wishing to give something back to the local community. Each year, Henry’s Angels has become more effective, so far organizing more than a dozen projects that have included more than 150 volunteers who have contributed more than 3,000 hours of their time and energy. The Angels support four projects each year and have already received tremendous support from local companies, hotels and services.
Team Schein Members Help Feed the Homeless and Renovate Animal Shelters

At Henry Schein’s headquarters in Melville, NY, Team Schein spirit is a way of life. In 2014, after donating 1,550 pounds of non-perishable food and toiletries to the Interfaith Nutrition Network (The INN), a network of soup kitchens based on Long Island, 24 Long Island Team Schein Members and their relatives visited the Mary Brennan INN based in Hempstead, NY, to help reorganize its stock items. Long Island Team Schein Members and their family and friends also volunteered in February and March 2014, as they do every year, to bring delicious meals, comfort, and kindness to 43 homeless men in the Huntington, NY area. Nearly 20 Team Schein Members and their relatives laid down new mulch, painted old walls, and created two beautiful new bulletin boards for the Bideawee animal shelter in Wantagh, NY. Team Schein Members and their family members also volunteered their time to help build homes in Mastic Beach, NY and in Shirley, NY, with Habitat for Humanity of Suffolk, and lent their support to the Huntington-Oyster Bay Audubon Society to help clear non-native invasive Mugwort roots from the Stillwell Woods Preserve in Woodbury, NY.
Henry Schein’s “Holiday Cheer for Children” Brightens the Holiday Season for More Than 1,000 Children and their Families

The holidays are a carefree and joyous time for many children — a time to celebrate with family, break open brightly wrapped presents, and enjoy the newest and latest toys. For many parents, the holidays are also a breather from the frenetic pacing of daily life, a time to reminisce, retool, and reboot for the coming New Year. Not every child, though, and not every parent, has the luxury to step back and embrace the pleasures of the holiday season.

It is for these children and their parents that Henry Schein launched its “Holiday Cheer for Children” program, a signature program of Henry Schein Cares. Children and their families participating in the “Holiday Cheer for Children” program are presented with clothing, toys, games, and other gifts, purchased by Team Schein Members, who contribute their own time and money by sponsoring individual children. Team Schein Members can also choose to sponsor a family by providing a food basket. Each year, Henry Schein partners with local social service organizations at various company locations to help identify children and families who would benefit from participating in the Holiday Cheer for Children program. In 2014, Henry Schein brightened the holidays for more than 1,000 children and their family members with “Holiday Cheer for Children.” Since the program began in 1999, approximately 16,000 children and their family members have participated.

“Holiday Cheer for Children continues to bring happiness to families that often face some of their greatest financial hardships during the holiday season. We are all thankful to Henry Schein,” said Lynne Campbell, Volunteer Coordinator at the Nassau County Department of Social Services.
In 2014, the Henry Schein Dental team held a cooking challenge at RMHA called “Scheining Chef,” a team-based cooking competition in the style of the New Zealand TV show, MasterChef, with dental customers serving as the contestants. Judging the dishes were Vanessa Baxter, a MasterChef finalist herself; Wayne Howett, CEO of RMHA; and Lora Emig, member of Heritage Hotel Auckland, another RMHA corporate sponsor.

Although the team with the best dish received a plaque for their dental office, all participants helped feed those staying at RMHA. “I am so impressed with the commitment, resolve, and focus of Team Schein Members who volunteered at Ronald McDonald House Auckland,” said Vaughan Nankivell, Marketing Manager, Henry Schein Shalfoon. “They say charity begins at home, and this local Henry Schein Cares initiative exemplifies just that.”

Just like any good neighbor, Henry Schein New Zealand, also known as Henry Schein Shalfoon, is ready to serve its community. Last year, Henry Schein Dental Team Schein Members teamed up in the kitchen to prepare dinner for those at Ronald McDonald House Auckland (RMHA), a “home away from home” for families of children staying at the nearby Starship Children’s Hospital in Auckland. The experience was so rewarding that the team decided to expand the work — and this time, with customers.

Two Team Schein Members Help Save a Life

Dana, an El Salvadoran infant, needed immediate heart surgery. Melissa Deitz and Wendy Klein, Team Schein Members from Henry Schein Medical, were informed of the situation through an e-mail from Gift of Life Los Angeles, a non-profit organization dedicated to saving the lives of children around the world with congenital heart disease. The organization needed a monitoring device and heart medication no longer available in El Salvador. With support from members of Henry Schein’s Medical Sales Support team in Reno, NV, Melissa and Wendy quickly went to work, coordinating the effort to secure an overnight shipment of life-saving supplies. As a result of the efficient teamwork, Gift of Life was able to travel to El Salvador within 48 hours of receiving the products and save Dana’s life.

“Thanks to Henry Schein’s efforts we were able to get Dana the medicine she needed just in time. She is now recovering and on her way home.”

—Rob Raylman, Executive Director, Gift of Life International
Team Schein Members Donate More Than 200 Hours at the “Center for Excellence”

Team Schein’s tireless commitment to volunteerism and community wellness and support was on display in 2014 at the “Center for Excellence,” which is located inside Henry Schein Practice Solutions’ headquarters in American Fork, UT. Equipped with high-quality dental equipment and technology from Henry Schein’s valued supplier partners, the center is a modern facility that helps make free oral care available to the local American Fork community’s underserved population.

In 2014, Team Schein Members donated more than 200 hours of their time, during which nearly 240 dental treatments were provided to more than 100 patients seen by dentists, dental extern students and pre-dental students through Share a Smile, a local dental nonprofit which provides free dental care to the poor and the homeless.

“The Center of Excellence, with its vast array of advanced dental technology, has enabled us to provide even more needy individuals than ever before with high-quality dental care to restore the function and aesthetics of their teeth.”

—Dr. Eric Vogel, founder and President of Share a Smile
Protecting the health of our planet and promoting environmental sustainability is key to Henry Schein’s commitment to global corporate social responsibility. In promoting the value of environmental sustainability internally, we strive to achieve LEED certification at our facilities, better manage our energy consumption, support the use of recycled material at our distribution centers, and promote green initiatives throughout our Company and among Team Schein. We also support the environmental sustainability efforts of our customers, encouraging the “greening” of health professionals’ offices, supporting the reduction of our customers’ total carbon footprint with the use of eco-friendly products through our Global Reflections program, and creating office spaces that meet world-recognized sustainability and green design standards.

How Our Distribution Centers Help Recycle and Conserve Energy

Henry Schein’s Distribution Centers (DCs) in the U.S., Canada, and Europe utilize multiple waste management and recycling programs, including programs for energy reduction, the purchase of eco-friendly and recycled supplies, and the recycling or reclamation of a variety of waste and disposable material. Energy control programs at our DCs involve the operation of automated lighting systems in office spaces and warehouses, which significantly drives down energy consumption, and the use of automated water faucets, which reduces our facilities’ water consumption. The eco-friendly and recycled supplies DCs purchase include copy paper, printer cartridges, packing dunnage, corrugated material, and cleaning products. Our DCs also recycle everything from plastic bottles to pallets.

In 2014, our recycling programs enabled our U.S. DCs to recycle more than 8,300 tons of material, an increase over the previous five years during which we recycled an average of approximately 7,900 tons. The environmental impact of our efforts in 2014 resulted in the reduction of more than 5,500 metric tons in carbon emissions, equivalent to removing more than 3,700 cars from the road for a year and conserving 2.3 million gallons of gasoline. Henry Schein’s corporate offices in Melville, NY and its Call Center in Reno, NV instituted a battery recycling program in 2014. Over the course of the year, our Melville offices recycled 728 pounds of batteries and the Reno facility 116 pounds — the equivalent of more than 33,000 standard AAA batteries in weight.

LEED Silver Certification

In 2014, U.S. Green Building Council awarded LEED® Silver Certification in the Building Operations and Maintenance rating system to the Henry Schein Melville East Building. This certification recognizes the continued efforts of the Company’s corporate offices to conserve energy and water, reduce waste and greenhouse gas emissions, and to be safer and healthier for Team Schein Members. The Melville East building, one of two buildings that comprise Henry Schein’s world headquarters on Long Island, NY, received its initial LEED certification in 2011. The second building, Melville West, was awarded LEED Silver Certification in 2013.
When Henry Schein U.K. chose Gillingham, U.K., as the location of its new headquarters building, numerous measures were undertaken to protect the surrounding natural habitat and local animal species. Vegetation was cleared and protected wildlife relocated in an environmentally sensitive manner; a trained ecologist made periodic visits; and an acoustic and visual sound barrier was created by planting trees between the new facility and nearby homes.

“One of our core principles is the creation of sustainable business,” said Simon Gambold, Vice President, European Dental Northern Region of Henry Schein. “We must ensure that our facilities not only use leading energy reduction technologies and energy management strategies, but that we also work with the local government to ensure the building of those facilities is done in an environmentally friendly way. With the new Gillingham facility, we used all the resources at our disposal—our Team Schein Members, the communities we operate in, and the local government—to devise the most ecologically sustainable construction approach.”

Green Leader Award and Global Reflections

In 2014, Henry Schein supported the Green Leader Initiative of the American Association of Dental Office Managers (AADOM) with funds from Henry Schein’s Global Reflections program. The Green Leader Initiative recognized Elizabeth Markiewicz from Dr. Anthony Markiewicz’s office in Mundelein, IL, as the recipient of the third annual Green Leader Award. Ms. Markiewicz was recognized for her outstanding leadership in inspiring her team to reduce waste and pollution, conserve energy, water and money, and incorporate a wellness-based and high-tech approach to managing their dental practice.

Henry Schein supports the Green Leader Initiative by helping dental, veterinary and medical practices “go green” by offering its environmentally friendly and green-certified products, including medical, cleaning, office and sanitary supplies featured in the company’s Global Reflections catalog. A portion of the proceeds from customer purchases from the catalog are donated to the Henry Schein Cares Foundation.
The Henry Schein Cares Calendar of Caring spotlights three key areas of focus that Henry Schein constituencies care deeply about: protecting the Earth; promoting wellness and prevention; and supporting cancer screening, treatment, and care. Over the course of the year, Henry Schein develops three special catalogs supporting the Calendar of Caring: Global Reflections; Health Advantage; and Think Pink, Practice Pink. Each catalog features special products that represent our three key areas of focus. A portion of the proceeds from the purchase of these products by Henry Schein’s customers is donated to the Henry Schein Cares Foundation to support nonprofit organizations that are making important contributions to these areas. Through participation in Henry Schein Cares Calendar of Caring, our customers have helped us raise nearly $1.2 million.
To Our Customers

To Team Schein Members
We foster an entrepreneurial environment, offer exciting opportunities for personal and professional growth, and treat each individual with respect and dignity.

Henry Schein Corporate Charter
At Henry Schein, holding ourselves accountable to our five key constituents — Team Schein Members, customers, supplier partners, investors and society — is one of our highest values, empowering us to succeed and thrive while serving the best interests of all. Three principal documents — our “Worldwide Business Standards,” “The Values of Team Schein,” and our “Corporate Charter” — articulate our overriding commitment to performing with the highest ethical standards, affirming our uncompromising honesty and integrity in all aspects of our operation and behavior.

The Values of Team Schein

At every stage in our Company’s evolution, the values of Team Schein have been the solid foundation on which we have built. Our values were important in 1989 before we had yet reached 1,000 Team Schein Members. They were important in 1990 before we planted our Company’s flag outside of the United States, in 1995 before we made our initial public offering on NASDAQ, and in 2004 before we became a Fortune 500 company.

• No politics — we believe that politics distracts from great business practices; it never enhances them.
• Mutuality — we believe that Henry Schein and its Team Schein Members are mutually responsible for the success of the business. Our promise is to create an environment in which all Team Schein Members can realize their fullest potential. In return, all Team Schein Members are expected to make contributions that positively impact our customers, our shareholders, our business and each other.
• Each person is as important as the next — we recognize the value of all Team Schein Members and their individual and collective contributions to the Company.
• Recognize creativity and encourage it — we strive to encourage an environment where creative thinking is the norm, not the exception.
• Open communications — we believe that effective communication is critical to our continued success.
• Ethics — we believe that conducting ourselves with the highest degree of ethics and integrity is foremost in driving a successful business.

Worldwide Business Standards

Our Worldwide Business Standards embody the values and responsibilities that apply to each Team Schein Member across all our Company’s domestic or global subsidiaries, business units and departments. As standards of conduct, our Worldwide Business Standards define the many policies and practices that have existed for decades at Henry Schein, and help us achieve the excellence we strive for every day.

These standards include ensuring that we:

- Market and provide only high-quality health care products and services to our customers;
- Promote a sustainable marketplace by complying fully with all applicable antitrust laws in carrying out our business;
- Maintain high standards for transparency, accuracy and completeness in the documentation and reporting of all financial information; and
- Adhere to all relevant federal, state and local regulations as enforced by numerous government agencies.
Accountability

Industry Recognition

Henry Schein has been a FORTUNE® World’s Most Admired Company for 14 consecutive years. In 2014 and 2015, the Company ranked first in the Wholesalers: Health Care category and first in each of the nine sub-categories of the ranking, which are: Management Quality; Quality of Products and Services; Innovativeness; Value as a Long-Term Investment; Soundness of Financial Position; Ability to Attract, Develop and Retain Talent; Community Responsibility; Wise Use of Corporate Assets; and Effectiveness in Conducting a Global Business. Henry Schein was named a World’s Most Ethical Company® in 2015 by Ethisphere Institute. This is the fourth consecutive year that Henry Schein has been honored with this designation, which recognizes organizations that continue to raise the bar on ethical leadership and corporate behavior.

In 2015, Henry Schein was named one of “America’s Best Employers” by Forbes in the magazine’s inaugural ranking. Henry Schein ranked #203 out of 500 organizations ranked by Forbes, based on an independent, anonymous survey of 20,000 employees working at more than 3,500 organizations.

Team Health

Helping Team Schein Members “Live Well, Be Well and Stay Well”

In June 2014, Henry Schein launched a new initiative for our Company’s wellness program — TeamHealth. Through TeamHealth, Henry Schein is helping Team Schein Members “live well, be well and stay well.” Through a “Know Your Numbers” communications campaign, the program directed Team Schein Members to know their blood pressure numbers, cholesterol levels, and body mass indices, all important information for Team Schein Members to stay healthy and improve their health. The campaign was put into full drive in July 2014, with voluntary biometric screenings conducted at larger Henry Schein facilities. Team Schein Members in the field received instructions on how to complete biometric screenings at local labs.
2014 CHARITABLE CONTRIBUTION RECIPIENTS

Henry Schein, through Henry Schein Cares and the Henry Schein Cares Foundation, provided financial and in-kind support to many organizations in 2014.
