

GERARD K. MEUCHNER

Vice President and Chief Global Communications Officer

Gerard K. Meuchner joined Henry Schein, Inc., as Vice President and Chief Global Communications Officer in January 2012. Mr. Meuchner is responsible for Henry Schein's corporate reputation management and the coordination of functions that promote Henry Schein's brand globally, including external and internal communications, executive communications, and social media.

Mr. Meuchner joined Henry Schein from Eastman Kodak Company, where he was a Corporate Vice President and Director, Communications and Public Affairs. Prior to joining Kodak in 2000, he was one of the founding members of Bloomberg News, where he covered the global credit markets, monetary policy, and foreign exchange, as well as some of the world's largest industrial companies.

In 2013, Mr. Meuchner served as the Chair of The Seminar, the premier organization of the highest-ranking communications and public affairs executives at the world's most influential corporations, nonprofit organizations, academic institutions, and public relations agencies. A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., he graduated from St. Bonaventure University with a bachelor's degree in Mass Communication.